

Day Three at BTSR

The morning sunrise was gorgeous. But you know what they say, red at night – sailor's delight, red in the morning- sailor's warning!

Our camp is Lone Eagle, about a half mile away from everything. With the boys making an average of five round trips a day, they are each walking about five miles a day.

The boys get the opportunity to camp in classic canvas tents for the full Scouting experience. Note the dirty wet sock mounted on the tent pole in the foreground.

We demand they keep the tents at least as clean as they do their rooms at home!

The day's activities included: Horsemanship skills,

more horsemanship skills,

handycrafts,

cooking,

and shooting. Good thing the staff is there to support our Scouts! (literally)

We capped off the 100 degree afternoon with a little cold watermelon that made everyone happy.

And then the rain started during dinner. Nobody floated away, but we will spend the day drying our gear in the sun. Good thing it is forecast to hit a high of 106 degrees today!

All the best from BTR.
